A BETTER COLUMBIA

Columbia is moving forward. The city council has made preparations for building a larger and more sanitary reservoir. At the same time plans are being made for improving that part of the city's pavement which is worn out. And a lower rate for electric light and power, that will reflect favorably on the fairness and business-like methods of the municipal authorities, has just been adopted.

All these things are strong factors in favor of growth and greater prosperity for Columbia. Nothing remains static; a community must either advance or recede in population and wealth, and nothing plays a more important role in the upbuilding of a city than progressive action by the government of the community.

Columbia has often been criticized as being composed of persons who were too satisfied with the status quo to make any effort for a larger and more progressive city. But actions speak louder than words—and the recent work of the city council is to be commended. Here's for a greater and better Columbia.

THE CHAUTAUQUA

The 1917 Chautauqua has come and gone. The six days with its twelve programs pleased. Every person who attended the Chautauqua received far more from it than the cost of his ticket.

More than 600 pledges have been made to guarantee a Chautauqua here next year. The White and Myers Company has always booked Columbia with good programs. The civic spirit of the people is shown by the subscription for the minimum number of tickets for another year.

Our local chautauqua board deserves commendation. The members and R. R. Judy, the secretary, worked hard to make the Chautauqua a success.

Since the express company refuses to bring liquor shipments to Columbia any more, motor traffic to the surrounding towns may pick up a little.

And now comes Springfield with a landlords' league. The landlords say tenants steal too many plumbing and electric light fixtures.

THE OPEN COLUMN

Merchant Answers "Patron's" Letter.

Editor the Daily Missourian: A few days ago "A Patron" of the merchants of Columbia wrote an article in regard to the delivery situation in Columbia. He explained that as it has been in the past, the man who carries his packages pays the same as he who had them delivered. That fact is true except in case of special deliveries for which the customer has been charged.

Under the present system of delivery, the actual expense can be reduced but little, however if the consumers will make a special effort to make but one order a day instead of from three to four, a material saving on delivery equipment can be made.

At the present time the cost of delivery service in from 2 1/2 to 5 per cent of the cost of merchandise in Columbia. The customer can materially reduce this percentage, and the savings through competition which will of course inure to the customer in the reduced price of merchandise. Naturally the merchants would rather see this savings go toward reducing the selling price of the merchandise than to pay the same out for deliveries.

SPORT

The Regulars defeated the Normals 28 to 14 in the second game of the Summer Session basketball series at Rothwell Gymnasium last night. This causes a tie for the championship and will necessitate another game being played to determine the winners of the Summer Session tournament. Warner and Hubbard starred for the Regulars while Phost and Meredith played equally well for the Normals. The deciding game will be played sometime next week.

The basketball game was preceded by an aesthetic dance by Misses Ruby Cline, Mary Percival, Katherine Douglas, Margaret Pearl and Elizabeth Stockton. The dance was called "The Jumping Jack," and was encored several times. This is the second time that the dance has been given, this time by request.

About 100 couples danced after the basketball game. The entire proceeds of the program will be used in the purchase of watch fobs for the winners of the championships in the Summer Session basketball and baseball leagues. The refreshments were furnished by the White Eagle Dairy.

M. U. UNIT PASSED U-BOAT IN ATLANTIC

trim assemblage has become a motley crew.

"Old Missouri" and the new yell have been given on the broad Atlantic for probably the first time in history. Many of the 160 ambulance men on board are unattached, the four units being Stanford, Boston Tech., Norton-Harjes and Missouri; so we haven't much competition in school spirit. Nevertheless we manage to make a noise now and then.

The New Yell in N. Y. Harbor.

The corps gave the new yell at the pier before leaving New York; on board here, after hearing a steamer letter of good wishes from President Hill and giving fifteen cheers for the sender; and during a field meet that was held on the forward deck last Saturday.

We missed Bob Simpson in that meet. As a team, we scored well, taking second in nearly every event except the cigarette rolling contest, which was for women, and the needle threading contest, in which we had no entrants. "Benny" Kline captured our only first place when he hopped to the finish ahead of the field in the sack race. "Clint" Collins was runner-up in the Japanese sword fight; "Seth" Herndon in the free-for-all cock fight; and George Gardere, "Bill" Gardner and Kline, with a stranger got near the finals in a three-legged race.

In the big event—the tug-of-war—twelve of our huskiest outpulled the Stanford team and then lost in the finals to the Norton-Harjes unit, which had eliminated Boston Tech.

$192 From a Ship Benefit.

Besides showing their mettle in athletics, the corps took part in a benefit concert for the French orphans, here yesterday, singing "Old Missouri" and as much of "Mid the Hills of Old Missouri" as they could remember. With about four hundred cabin passengers the ship gave something over 960 francs, or $192, to the cause.

Altogether, it is a happy, forward-looking bunch of men. The weather has been fairly good, some of it too good, when one thinks of the submarines—only a few have felt unsteady, and the voyage is being enjoyed to the limit.

The home folks back in Missouri have not been forgotten, if one may judge from the way the Missouri unit has helped to do away with the ship's stationery, which is now all used up. Already the songs on the deck o' nights have been songs of home and mother—but the boys aren't homesick yet.

M. U. BOYS LIKED SHIP LIFE

Ira B. Hyde, in Letter, Says "Jumbo" Farmer Slept 18 Hours Daily.

In a letter to D. N. Parry, a student in the School of Journalism, received yesterday, Ira B. Hyde, a graduate of the School of Journalism, tells of the experiences of the University of Missouri boys while crossing the Atlantic.

The letter was written just before the steamer Rochambeau reached Bordeaux, France, and directly after the only submarine seen on the trip, had been sighted. "The boys enjoy the life on ship," says Hyde. "Some of them have spent the time talking to the girls who are crossing, others find fascination in the smoking room, 'Jumbo' Farmer sleeps eighteen hours a day, and today was accused of never having seen the ocean."

"We've seen the submarine. "She was sighted from the bridge about 2 o'clock this afternoon, after I had written the first part of the letter."

Notice

Important changes will occur in time of Katy trains on July 22

Patrons are urged to obtain advance information of arrivals and departure of trains from ticket agent to

ter. "Bill" Gardner and I with a half dozen other passengers were standing well aft on the promenade deck and noticed the ship's officers straining their eyes. We looked the same way and there she was, with the periscope and part of the deck (if a submarine has one) sticking above water. The Rochambeau executed a "right face" to get its gun after the U-boat, but we were too late. She had ducked."
